CNR Weather is a real-time weather widget for your website or blog which allows you to view current weather conditions in 15 major cities around the world, as well as a few in the UK, USA, and Canada. Available in HTML and Flash versions. This widget will display your nearest city's weather conditions, as well as providing a current weather forecast in that area. The information displayed is based on current conditions (temperature, wind speed, precipitation, humidity, pressure, visibility) and forecasts (two-day, 5-day, 10-day, and 15-day). A location map is provided to see where your city is on the world map. Weather Info's Weather Calculator is a nice calculator widget that integrates easily with many weather calculation and charting tools (e.g. maps and weather charts) on the web. View the current weather in any city, or predict the weather 2 days, 5 days or 10 days into the future. The widget can integrate with Google Charts, which displays charts based on the calculated values. This weather widget displays the temperature, dew point, pressure, and wind speed for every hour in the day and the forecast for the next two days. A map displays the weather conditions for each city. Both the current and forecast conditions are provided for every city. Weather Time is a widget for the weather forecast for the current time and the upcoming time. The forecast time is displayed as either the current time, or a time
