Q: SSRS expression multi-value SQL I have the following SQL statement in my SSRS reports: `SELECT [Name] , IsNull([SCHDE_CMY/SWDE_FIT], 'True') AS [Sales Representative] FROM [DMS_SALESREP] WHERE MONTH([DATE_TO_MONTH]) = MONTH(GETDATE()) AND YEAR([DATE_TO_YEAR]) = YEAR(GETDATE())` The DMS_SALESREP is a Customer Order table. I basically only need the first and last names but I need this to be a multi-valued option in order to return all sales representatives who are out for the month and/or year. So if you have 5 sales representatives, 2 are out for the month and one is out for the year, the report should show the first and last name of the 3 sales representatives who are still active (not out for the month and/or year). Am I right in thinking that maybe I should create a stored procedure in SQL with this SQL statement and just execute it using the DataSet used in the SSRS report? If so, how?

A: You could create an rs procedure to retrieve the names and retrieve the schema_name into a dataset. This should do what you want. This article explains some of the ins and outs of the data set schema in detail. DataSet MSDN Article `CREATE PROCEDURE [dbo].[SalesRep_Proc] AS BEGIN SET NOCOUNT ON; DECLARE @comany_name NVARCHAR(50), @sales_reps NVARCHAR(50), @comany_name_null NVARCHAR(50), @sales_reps_null NVARCHAR(50)`

MS Word Count Pages and Words In Multiple Documents Software is a simple yet powerful application that lets you count the number of pages, words or characters contained within a Microsoft Word file. The program allows you to do this on multiple files simultaneously without unnecessary delay. All you need to do is select a specific file and add the provided parameters to the search. There are no limits to the number of files that can be counted in this way, making this application extremely useful.

Support for .DOC/.DOCX files MS Word Count Pages and Words In Multiple Documents Software can count the number of words or characters within a .DOC or .DOCX file. The program can select the character set used for the document and does not require any specific reference to it. This way, it can process documents created with any word processing software. This application also supports the document preview and you can check the number of lines, words and characters. MS Word Count Pages and Words In Multiple Documents Software is one of the few applications that let you count the number of words in .DOC or .DOCX files. The statistical data is displayed in two distinct tabular columns, one containing the total number of words and the other the number of words including spaces. Advanced analysis MS Word Count Pages and Words In Multiple Documents Software allows you to analyze different statistics about your documents. You can check how many words or lines are used up on a page, the number of paragraphs and the total number of characters used up on the document. The program uses several Microsoft Word calculations to retrieve the required information, which makes it extremely easy to use. MS Word Count Pages and Words In Multiple Documents Software supports the standard text analysis languages that are required for text document processing. These languages allow you to include or exclude several text attributes (for example: name, total character, character including spaces, page breaks, part breaks, line breaks, line number, paragraph and part number) when you count the number of words or characters. Flexible counting MS Word Count Pages and Words In Multiple Documents Software can count the number of pages, words or characters contained within multiple files simultaneously. The application is capable of processing the number of files from 1 to a large number. This way, you can select the number of files and the number of pages, words or characters to count. The total processing time is minimal, but is dependent on the number of files you use. If you wish to count fewer files, you will only have to increment the number of pages and words. MS 09e8f5149f
