The North Dakota State women's hockey team has been named to the NCHC All-Academic Team for the second straight year. The 2017-18 squad received the award on Monday afternoon from NCHC Commissioner Joe Tomlin. A total of 91 student-athletes from the 14 Conference schools were honored on the All-Academic Team in a variety of categories. The NCHC strives to recognize student-athletes and coaches for their excellence on the field and in the classroom. Senior defenseman Jenna von Bergen and sophomore forward Cassie Triebel are the only NDSU players on the 2018 team. Triebel was named NDSU's Female Athlete of the Year for the second straight year while von Bergen posted the second-highest individual grade point average at 3.961 in the past four semesters. Tori Eichelberger was the only NDSU student-athlete honored on the All-Academic Team on the men's side in a similar category. She is a biological sciences major from suburban Minneapolis and will play her senior year at NDSU this fall. The 2018 NDSU All-Academic Team: Dan Averill – First Team –

With Akeni Enterprise Instant Messaging LDAP solution users are easily managed in the directory service through the use of Active Directory integration. Directory user information is provided by the centralized LDAP directory making the administration of user accounts a seamless operation. Access to group directories is obtained through Active Directory and the LDAP directory software. This saves the administrator from having to install LDAP software and configure the directory for their specific environment. With Akeni Enterprise Instant Messaging LDAP, users log in from any client device through the use of Active Directory. Administrators can control and grant or deny access to the instant messaging software through the use of the LDAP directory. All users are given a unique login ID, allowing the administrator to manage user accounts from a single entry. Akeni Enterprise Instant Messaging LDAP also provides administrator users with the ability to receive instant messages through their Active Directory profile. Users can be automatically added to a list of users allowed to contact them on a regular or an emergency basis. Somehow, while my Flymo's keypad was on, I got the message, "Press and hold a button for 5 seconds to lock phone". The problem is that when I press the lock button, nothing happens. The Flymo is not on and it's not plugged in either. Should I send the Flymo back to the factory? A: Yes. You should go to the regional mobile network/toll service provider's nearest service centre and request that they try to scan the model number of the Flymo to register it and provide you with new/functioning code. Once you do this, you can use the locked/unlocked feature of your
