"The RIAA took the ridiculously extreme position of suing MOG, a company with no claim whatsoever to infringing content, for alleged infringement of 30 songs by Mp3.com which it offered for download and includes songs by such artists as Jonny Cash, Dave Matthews, Ludacris and 50 Cent! "The RIAA's arguments consist of such claims as (1) that MOG's consumers, who already pay for music download services, should be forced to pay for the same content twice (in one form or another) and (2) that MOG knew about the file sharing by consumers and cooperated with it, 'providing a platform from which infringing downloads could be distributed.'"It's a wrap. With the Halo Waypoint hub officially shuttered on Tuesday as part of the Xbox One's interface overhaul, the social hub is no more. The once fan-favorite feature, which has been part of the Windows 10 user interface for many months now, was officially shut down in mid-November. While over the past few months, Halo Waypoint received a wave of new features since the release of Halo 5: Guardians, the feature has been the epicenter of scrutiny ever since Microsoft shut it down. One of the main complaints was users' inability to interact with friends and their communities through the hub and many posts have been filled with apologetic messages. After all, this was part of a campaign to re-imagine and improve the Xbox Live social hub and Halo Waypoint took the brunt of the criticism. The last social hub for Windows 10 was the Xbox Live app which we showed you how you can hide it in Windows 10's Settings app. It's not clear at the moment if Microsoft will also shut down the Xbox Live tag and the Xbox.com homepage but it's very possible, especially if the company is looking at turning the Windows 10 Photos app into a social hub. If you're interested to see what the Windows 10 social hub looks like, you can check out the screenshots below. Halo Waypoint Shutdown FAQ: Are you worried about what to expect from the Windows 10 social hub? Let us know in the comments below. Thanks Toni for the tip! Lake Tahoe Craft Sales Grow Lake Tahoe Brewery sales more than doubled in 2017 as craft beer drinking continues to grow. The Brewery reported total revenue of $14 million for the year with an increase of 12 percent or $1.8 million. The company attributed the growth to increased wholesaling, taproom sales, and new retail partners. Craft beer sales in the United States grew 11 percent in 2017, according to the Brewers Association. Craft beer sales in Lake Tahoe increased 28 percent in 2016 and 2017. "All indications are that craft beer is a permanent part of the market," said Patrick McManus, Lake Tahoe Brewery CEO, at a trade conference Wednesday morning in Woodland, CA. "We've seen steady growth for the past two years." At least 4 of the companies building craft beer tasting rooms or taprooms in Southern California now have products on the shelf at local retailers including Lakewood, California-based Widmer Brothers Brewing Co. and Oakland, California-based Golden Road Brewing Co. The brewery has also added three new beers to its core lineup. "Winter Warlock" is a double-bock beer brewed with caramelized amaretto, dark chocolate, and vanilla extract. "I Love Oakland" is a Belgian-style IPA, with "citrusy" zest and a Belgian yeast blend. The "up-to-the-moment" most talked about beer "Civic Pride" is a golden colored ale with "tropical fruit and citrus." McManus said the brewery decided to introduce a diversity of products to satisfy the marketplace. "We didn't want to make the same six or eight products," he said. Lake Tahoe Brewery will have a total of 25 beers in its inventory throughout the year. Lake Tahoe Brewery will have more than 200 labels on its beer, including the addition of "Board and Whiskey", which is a sour ale with a flavor of dry sherry and a charcoal, wood-smoked bourbon overlay. Many of the new labels will be released at the upcoming "Lake Tahoe Craft Beer Festival" in September. The festival is the second of three beer festivals in the first half of 2019 at Lake Tahoe casinos. The brewery will
