fifa mandates that all agreements for freelance work be reduced to writing, and requires that freelance workers be paid within a certain timeframe. for example, a model hired by a clothing company must be paid on or before the day they perform their services.⁶ it also requires that, in the event that a hiring party fails to make the required payment to the freelancer worker, it must pay the freelance worker the principal amount of that compensation. furthermore, the hiring party is liable to the freelance worker for all reasonable costs that the worker incurred in enforcing any right that the worker may have under the law. while this is the first such law to be enacted in the united states, it is noteworthy. many other industries, including fashion, film, and the digital arts, are not immune from the law's protections. a lawsuit in the new york state court of claims to enforce fifa is a proper form of action to enforce the protections afforded by the statute. for example, if a model hired by a fashion company fails to be paid, or fails to be paid on a timely basis, the freelance worker may sue in the new york state court of claims to enforce the protections provided by fifa. the court of claims has jurisdiction over claims to enforce contracts, and is authorized to consider a claim even if there has not been compliance with the statute. the court may, in addition, award the prevailing party costs and attorneys fees. once again, kante rises to the fore. the chelsea man is at the top of the summer 2018 fifa world cup qualification rankings and is joint top of the fifa world cup qualification top scorers chart with mexico's hirving lozano. the striker has scored four goals in his last two matches, against the two-time world champions germany and the netherlands. with his goal on sunday, the frenchman is now level with all-time top scorer ronaldo, with 99 goals.

fifa is the world's most popular sport and is widely considered the biggest corruption scandal in sports history. cases investigated by fifa and the united states department of justice include payments made by the 1994, 1998, 2002 and 2010 world cups to marketing companies controlled by former fifa officials. other investigations have focused on payments made to top-level football players, top sponsors and top national teams. he was charged with eight counts of bribery, wire fraud and racketeering, which he denies. an indictment alleges that sepp blatter, the head of fifa, agreed to award the rights to host the 2018 and 2022 world cups to russia and qatar in return for cash payments of up to $10 million to fifa executives. world cup hosting rights are one of the most valuable properties in sports, and the first two tournaments are the most lucrative events in the world. after the arrests of blatter and several other fifa officials on charges of corruption, the organization has vowed to "make the necessary changes to ensure that fifa is restored as the sole governing body of soccer." the arrests of sepp blatter, joseph blatter, eugenio figueroa, alfredo hawit, jérôme valcke, jeffrey webb and rafael salguero were all conducted in zurich on wednesday. sepp blatter, the former president of fifa, and the organization's longtime boss, was arrested on bribery and wire fraud charges. after the announcement of the arrests of blatter and the other fifa officials, fifa requested that the fbi conduct a joint investigation with fifa. in the long term, the new ratings are most likely to impact the third-biggest club in world football. psg currently sit third in the standings, just behind liverpool and manchester united. while they could come through and overtake the red devils in a matter of weeks, this would not be a shocking result for the french giants. it would be a far more concerning result for liverpool, who have been consistently rated in the highest tier of the game for the last three years, albeit for different reasons. the new fifa has shuffled the order of the premier league clubs and knocked liverpool down a place, leaving the anfield club just outside the top eight. 5ec8ef588b
