If you were looking for the goodreads link for this book then you have found it. Cheryl Bolen, Author of Lady By Chance.Netflix's Billy Bob Thornton and Michael Shannon have shared screen time in "The Limey" and "Thank You for Smoking," but they have yet to team up for a feature film. However, while promoting "The Wind That Shakes the Barley," actor and writer Thornton has hinted at a possible future collaboration with "Nurse Betty" lead Shannon. "I've never been able to write anything," he said in an interview with The Independent. "I've wanted to do movies since I was six years old, and I haven't. I would love to. We'd make an interesting movie." He continued, "The way to make an interesting movie with Michael is to give him something he has to work up into something interesting. One thing that's already interesting is me. The only way I can get good material is to say things and do things that are really done, but that don't always make for the most provocative script. I would love to collaborate on something with a bigger budget and a big star." "Nurse Betty" is currently in theaters and has already made over $70 million at the box office. Scott Mosier plays a nurse who is attracted to Betty, a transgender woman who works at his hospital. Besides "The Limey" and "Thank You for Smoking" the screenwriting duo have also created the country music-themed ensemble-drama "All In Together Now," starring Ray Liotta, Robert Duvall and Dianne Wiest, as well as the semi-autobiographical crime drama "Losing Isaiah." The pair wrote together on the films "Smoke" and "Wonder Boys." The latter is an adaptation of the Richard Price novel that starred the late Dennis Quaid and Jack Nicholson. Thornton has since directed "Sling Blade," and produced "O Brother, Where Art Thou?," "Intolerable Cruelty" and "Cowboys and Aliens." "The Limey" is an adaptation of the hit novel "The Limey," by Jim Thompson. The film stars Sean Penn, Timothy Hutton and Guy Pearce. Penn won the best actor Oscar in the 1969 film adaptation of the same name. Early reviews have been mixed. The movie holds a 40 percent rating from critics on Rotten Tomatoes, with some praising Penn's acting but others saying the film was too slow
