The Syrian government has declared a nationwide ceasefire, although rebel groups say it has not been implemented. Syrian rebels say they killed five government soldiers on Thursday in Aleppo, Syria's most populous city and an opposition stronghold, bringing the death toll for the country's civil war so far this month to at least 54. The army said it responded to attacks with air strikes. The government of President Bashar al-Assad, backed by Russian air power, made significant gains in Aleppo province on the northern outskirts of the city in recent days, nearly encircling the rebel-held part of Aleppo. In a phone call with the U.S. and Russian ambassadors in Washington on Wednesday, Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan said he had warned the Syrian army "to stop any further aggression in Aleppo, and said that we would be ready to step in to protect the Syrian people of Aleppo." In a follow-up statement, Ankara said it called on the United Nations to act against violations of the city by the government. "There is an unacceptable risk that Aleppo may fall into a humanitarian disaster if the Security Council does not act," Erdogan said. After a meeting on April 12 in Turkey with U.N. Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon, Erdogan said Ban gave his "full support" to the rebels and said the U.N. should demand that Syrian government forces be put under a monitoring system. U.N. officials have said the U.N. does not have the authority to send its own forces

Shorten links with custom domain names in the browser's URL bar Shorten URLs with custom names and domains Don't lose your important links The aim of the developer is to help you increase the credibility and exposure of your company's links. Even emojis can be used to make the shortened links look more approachable, and there's a wide range of emoji options available. Share and monitor your shortened URLs In addition to viewing the short and original URLs, you can find out the duration of their lifetime, along with the number of clicks made by others. The links can also be copied, filtered, sorted or deleted from the list. A search function is put at your disposal to help you quickly identify a specific URL when having a large list at hand. Custom domains can be registered but this requires payment. Moreover, Rebrandly for Firefox can be integrated with iPhone, Android, Goo.gl, Clickmeter, Bitly Connector and Importer, Chrome, Safari, Bookmarklet, Name.com, iWantMyName, Zapier, Cloudflare, PostPickr, SocialPilot, Tweetbot, and Short menu. Intuitive URL shortener that emphasizes customization It worked smoothly with the latest Firefox edition in our tests, without causing any stability issues to the web browser. Taking everything into account, Rebrandly offers a simple solution for those interested in shortening links, customizing names and domains, adding emojis, and integrating the app with many other platforms. The full edition can be explored by purchasing a Premium license. Description: Windows Live Messenger is a legacy instant messaging application for Windows that competes with Windows Live Messenger. Windows Live Messenger was originally developed by the Chinese company Tencent and was first released in May 2000. It was later bought by Microsoft for $480 million in 2005 and rebranded to Windows Live Messenger. Unlike Windows Live Messenger, Windows Live Messenger Messenger is closed source and proprietary. It is available for only Windows, while the cross-platform Windows Live Messenger Messenger is free for use. Windows Live Messenger Messenger is still available for download, and its user base has steadily declined since it was rebranded by Microsoft. Description: Namaste is a free and easy-to-use Web-based hosting service with a unique full-featured control panel. It is known for its ease of use and offers unlimited disk space, subdomains, and domain aliases. With NAMASTE you can host all your own websites, and you can share unlimited domains under 1,500 dollars a year.
